CHEAPSIDE'S GRAND OPENING and DISPLAY

—OF—
Millinery, General Dry Goods and Furs

FOR FALL AND WINTER, 1892, WAS HELD

On SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1,

DURING THE DAY AND EVENING.

The mere announcement of this fact semi-annually has always been sufficient to attract a large crowd from the town and surrounding country.

This season we show a larger assortment of rich goods than ever before, and will occupy more space on account of our largely increased stock. Our basement will be spread with Carpets and Furs.

There will be a great spread in the Gents' Furnishings Department.

A GRAND SHOW in the Dress Goods Department.

A GREAT EXHIBITION in the Millinery Department.

A FINE DISPLAY in the Mantle and Cloth Department.

A PRETTY SHOW of Novelties in the Fancy Goods Department.

A GREAT RANGE of Gloves, Hosiery, Laces, etc., in the Glove and Hose Department.

ALTOGETHER the finest display ever seen in the Central District, or perhaps in any other district.

And the grandest attraction of all will not be alone the largeness, variety or richness, but the low prices for good qualities which prevail all over the house.

You are cordially invited to visit us and inspect our stock. If you don't buy we won't be angry. Come and bring your friends.

TYENDINGA RESERVE

From Our Own Correspondent.

The harvest festival on Sunday last was hearty and interesting. The parish church was filled to its utmost capacity. At the celebration there were sixty-four communicants.

Miss Anderson, of the parsonage, went on Tuesday to visit friends at Brighton and take part in the harvest festival there.

Most of our people have finished threshing, and ploughing is now in order.

The chief of the band held their monthly meeting in the council house on Wednesday last. A good deal of routine business was transacted.

The parish church of the reserve is indebted to Miss Sawyer, of Adams Centre, N.Y., for a handsome set of book markers, appropriate to the several church seasons. She visited by reserve during the summer, became interested in the work, and desired to contribute something to the parish.

Walter A. Brant is building a house on his lot at the Marysville road. He is industrious, and we wish him success.

Miss Kiddle, of London, England, lately

sent a few interesting books for Sunday school to the parish.

Cyrus Maracle purchased a good fishing outfit, and it will not be his fault if he shins go west of his shanty.

The general Robert still resides at the Baker groin dock to the satisfaction of all interested.

KINGSFORD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mrs. David Winters is visiting friends in Huron County.

The many friends of Mrs. Wildman, of Flint, Michigan, will be glad to hear that she is much better.

Tenders for the mail contract for four years will be received by the Postmaster General until 11th November. Forms of application will be obtained from the Postmaster at Albert

Maryville, or from the Inspector at Kingston. Mrs. Peter Sullivan, who has drawn the mail for the last four years, has given universal satisfaction.

Mr. John Egan, road surveyor of the Township of Tyendinaga, will set a road job in McHenry's swamp, on the boundary road, on Monday next at 1 o'clock. Also a job out on

Mr. Wright's woods on the boundary road.

A notice can be seen in the post office.

Mr. T. Arthur Gordon obtained second prize on his line black horse in the single carriage horse competition at the Bay of Quinte exhibition at Belleville. Value $45.

We extend hearty congratulations to our worthy and esteemed friend the editor of THE TRIBUNE on his marriage, and wish him and his bride a peaceful and prosperous voyage through life.

Some weeks ago this little community was startled by hearing of sons throwing their fathers out of doors, but recently the picture has been reversed and three fathers have thrown their sons and their wives out of doors and compelled them to begin anew the life that they had happily begun.

Mr. Asa Abbott started for Michigan on Friday.

Another thunder storm on Wednesday Evening.

Miss Ellen Killoran has gone to Belleville.

Rev. Maurice McCarthy, brother of Rev.

Thomas McCarthy, of Read, arrived last week from Dublin, Ireland, and celebrated Mass in St. Patrick Church last Sunday. The re-gentleman will spend two or three weeks in fall trade, having supplied ourselves with a full stock of goods that are needed at this season of the year.

Miss McCarthy, of Tweed, was visiting here last week.

The recent heavy winds have shaken down a large quantity of apples that they are now a drag on the markets. The evaporating establishments in Belleville and Napanee are overstocked.

One wedding on Wednesday and another on Thursday.

On Wednesday evening a large number of guests assembled at the residence of Mr. Wilson to witness the marriage of Mr. Wilson and Miss Hattie Jenkins, his youngest daughter. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. McClellough, formerly of this circuit. The bride looked charming.

The wedding present were numerous and everything passed merrily as the proverbial marriage bell. We extend hearty congratulations to the young couple.

SHEEP RAISING.

A good sheep will pay its own expenses with wool.
Sheep shelter that is wet underfoot is dangerous to the flock.
The necessary food for sheep should all be grown upon the farm.
You can keep good paying sheep for less money than you can keep poor ones.
When a sheep dies, it usually leaves wool enough to pay funeral expenses.
One advantage in keeping good stock is that it encourages better feeding.
Properly managed a few sheep can be made to materially lessen the waste on a farm.
A straw shed makes a good shelter for sheep, provided care is taken to have it dry under foot.
Plan to supply green food as long and as late as possible. It is the best feeding on dry feed during the winter that often plays the mischief with sheep.
It is almost folly to undertake to raise early lambs unless care is taken in good season to provide good shelter for the ewes as well as for the lambs. To make lambs profitable they must be healthy from the start.
Within the last thirty years the wool production of the United States has very nearly trebled, yet it could double it again without more than meeting the requirements for its own consumption.
In the autumn, after the crops are harvested, is a good time to kill ewes. A small flock of sheep will help greatly in this if you turn them in succession into the various fields where herbage is rather scant. A dozen head will in this way clean a hundred acres fairly well completely, and in a short time. They are worth keeping for this purpose alone.
Get your note paper and envelopes at Eggar's, where you get value for your money.
Now is the time to advertise in THE TRIBUNE and thus catch the fall trade.
Stamps and pencils cheap, very cheap, at THE TRIBUNE Office.

THE B. H. M. CLUB.

Favored by the darkness, the members of this old and honorable club were in their ways at the approach of midnight. Their rendezvous could not be followed then, and were it not for the electric alarm, however, the sporting editor would have remained unrecorded. At the electric alarm, however, the sporting editor would have remained unrecorded. At the electric alarm, however, the sporting editor would have remained unrecorded.

After the customary knocks, and a promise for good behavior, admittance was obtained and the wretched wretch was in the gaze. Seated in a circle around a fire were the thirty or forty members, met together for their autumn confab and discussion of matters about town. The angry glances which at first were directed to the new comer were changed to those of welcome and the scribbler was shown to a seat.

Letters were read from several prominent members. The Sachem hoped that the proceedings would be of an edifying character, and that wit and honour would be interspersed with questions of more practical nature. He had been much amused at the story of "A gentleman and his wife, both of whom were greatly respected by their neighbors for their Christian charity, entertained a visiting clergyman from a distant city. Among the guests were members of their own church. The bright little daughter of the host was greatly interested in the good doctor, and was very anxious to know why he should say grace before dining. The doctor was pleased at the question, and hastened to inform her that good people endeavored to return thanks in that manner for the good things which were given. "Yes," exclaimed the little inquisitive, "but you don't say grace just like my papa did in his chair at the table last night." "How did your papa say grace, little girl?"

"Well, papa came in, and as soon as he got in his chair at the table he looked back at mamma and said, very solemn like 'My God, what a supper!'"
Dick Grocer said he believed in kicking on principle. He learned to do it when quite a little fellow. If it was not right why were the juveniles in our great institutions encouraged in the art? He only hoped that the doctor would vanquish Picton as well as Napanee.

Song by E. Arthur:
If none were sick and none were dead
What service could we render?
I think if we were always glad
We scarcely could be tender.
Did our beloved never die?
Our patient ministrations,
Earth would grow cold, and miss indeed
Its sweetest consolation.
If sorrow never claimed our hearts,
And every wish were granted,
Patience would die and hope depart—
Life would be disenchanted.

Blimack Ray said he was afraid that the meeting was assuming too solemn a tone, so much so that if friend Stoddard would accompany him on his trombone he would break forth into a song expression his feelings:

Say, do you ever get the blues, the regular old-stem-winding kind.
When nothing here or nowhere else is what you want, and you get blind
To every mortal blessing that the Lord has sent you here below.
When all the flowers seem to fade and only weeds and thistles grow?
A man can't tell just why he feels so mighty lonesome like at times.
Why everything is jangled so and not a thing is any more his own.
You're neither sick or well, a sort of weak and weary half and half,
You don't feel bad enough to cry and yet you wouldn't dare to laugh.
The birds all seem to sing in some shrill compass not at all their own.
And brooks go babbling in a sad and melancholy undertone.
And everything's as miserable as breaking in a new pair shoes.
While pleasure turns his face away from him who has a spell of blues,
The sun may shine and you see a gloomy shadow everywhere,
And even full of cheer all look very lonesome-like and bear.
A sad and misty far away of sorrow kind of dims the eyes.
You're not chuck full of misery and wouldn't have it otherwise.
It isn't very often that I get a spell of feeling bad.
Because to me life is a joy and nearly all my days are glad,
But I have sympathy for those who now and then their sunshine lose,

Who just sat down and bite their thumb and cultivate a spell of blues.

Samuel News said that although from severity of illness he once in a while growled at the boys and girls for riding down hills on their sleighs and busses, yet he did not mean it. If he remembered rightly he was a boy or girl once, and up to far more mischievous and sport than any of the Deseronto ones. Nowadays it took a bus to hold two girls and one boy, but he used to steer and hold three girls on one sleigh. If this harmless amusement was denied them, what would the youngsters do? A whole regiment of Gunguis would not keep them out of mischief.

Clara by the club:
When Uncle Sam was a boy,
One Christmas eve he hung
His stockings by the old fire place,
And then this song he sung:

"Oh, Santa Claus! Oh, Santa Claus,
Give me some potent charm,
That pretty girls when I'm a man,
May grow upon my farm."
And that is why old Santa Claus
Today is so admired.
Because he's given Uncle Sam
The thing he most desired.

Conductor Gorden said that he was not used to speech making, but would read a touching little poem dedicated to the great transcontinental railway "The Bay of Quinte."

The conductor, I trow, is the luckiest man
Who dwells on the face of the earth;
Or all the gay fellows I happen to know,
He's got the most comfortable berth.

For when the train stops, and the people alight,
"Such maids as in beauty abound"
He will seize by the hand the elbow, or arm,
And gracefully swing to the ground.

Long and prolonged applause.
William Gorden said that the following reasonable appeal by an unmarried man, hoping with all hope, had been handed him.

THE BACHELOR.
Returning home at close of day,
Who gently chides my long delay,
While pocket holds me well at bay?
Nobly.

Who flying sends my teeth and hair,
And makes me dodge with nearest care,
My slippers flying through the air?
Nobly.

Who regulates a steady fire,
With anger blamng ever higher,
While missiles ever come the higher?
Nobly.

When sickness ever come to rack my frame,
And grief disturbs my troubled brain,
Who tells me I've myself to blame?
Nobly.

Asyal Low said he was much interested in all that had passed that he almost forgot his subject.

By some it had been considered a mystery why two such important holidays as Christmas and New Years come so close together. It is plain. The excesses of Christmas pass the population into the humour of making good resolutions for the coming year, and it is necessary that New Year's be close on hand, else they'd backslide before the resolution were recorded. At which he was called to order.

As time was quickly passing and daylight beginning to appear William Jaymal Lee sang the closing solo:

Would you like to know the reason why de snake shed his skin?
Kase he tuk de ole one off fur to let the debil in.
An Eve she not a fishin wid a piece of meat an bread,
An de debil he slipped up an put de apple in her head.
An de way de debil done it, he jist squart down by de ditch,
An he seed de cayfish bittin and he give de line a hitch;
An Eve, she tank him kindly, and de debil blow his noise,
An says, "Ain't you got nuffa, but your skin an hair fur close?"
An he tell her, he shat eat up all de apples an de seeds.

The secretary remarked that he had found the following pinned on his desk, and wanted to know if it was to be construed as personal:

THE TYPEWRITER'S ADVANTAGE.
He isn't the functionary on earth, and his jokes sometimes are that.
And weak and stale, and out of date, but what does he care for that?
For he knows what busy men editors are—they're tired in every joint—
So he typewrites his jokes, and the editors have no trouble in seeing the point.
It was then decided to close the meeting as the sun in its fulgences was raising when all joined in singing: "Old Grimes."

The most conspicuous object in the eastern heavens these September nights since Mars has shaken the dust of the earth off his feet, is to be a star, at least off of a few minutes gait for a flirtation with some other sphere, is the most arid but intensely brilliant planet Jupiter. Jupiter like Mars, carries a harem of moons along with him, but he's half so shy about it as his blood-thirsty little brother seems to be. Until a few years ago even the astronomer expected Mars of possessing moons, and they can now be seen only through big telescopes. But Jupiter's satellites are almost visible to the naked eye. They can be readily seen with the aid of a looking glass held perfectly still.

A meeting of the cricket club was held last Saturday evening at the office of Dr. Vandervoort. The large attendance shows the interest taken in the game. The secretary, treasurer read his report for the season, and notwithstanding the large disbursements for a club house, improvements to the grounds and entertaining visiting clubs, a surplus was in his hands. It was voted that the present crease be taken up and a new one made, which should be 60x90 feet, necessitating an expenditure of about $100. The work is already well under way and will soon be ready for sodding. Mr. S. Druce is in charge, which is a guarantee of a satisfactory job. These improvements will put the crease in a condition second to none in Ontario, and next season a number of the best clubs in Canada have signified a willingness to come to Deseronto. With such good prospects in view it is hoped that the club will be able to realize the importance of the call of the club, as all are under great obligations to them for their efforts provided during the season.

Wednesday was the fourth centenary of the day on which Columbus first sighted one of the islands adjacent to the great continent of America. It is a fact and becoming that the people of this world should be impressed upon the minds of the rising generation. In the afternoon the teachers in the various departments in the Public School have to their scholars a short course of the life and works of Columbus. The scholars then assembled in the school yard where the flag was raised. Principal Cole addressed the school at some length on the subject they were considering. Rev. R. J. Craig, of the Baptist church, then addressed the school having visited the Bahama Islands, the Spanish cathedral, the tomb of Columbus, and other works that commemorate the discovery of the continent by Columbus. The address was greatly appreciated by the scholars, who sang the hymn "The Discovery of the Continent." Three cheers were heartily given for the school when various recitations and readings were given bearing on the subject. All seemed to enter into the spirit of the occasion fully, and to realize the importance of "the discovery," by Columbus, of the new world lying all over town in commemoration of the great event.

BEAUTIFUL OCTOBER

The month of October is the most beautiful month of the year. Now the yellow sun shines down upon the changing leaves as the light winds move the branches and the changing landscape is so beautiful. The harvest fields have been cleared of their beautiful crops, the orchards are ready to yield the fruits of golden fruit, and the cool and bracing air of the morning and evening all seem to add new life and activity to all. Surely no season is so full of promise, and so full of beauty, and so full of life as this month of October. The trees presenting the most beautiful shades of gold.

A TRIPLE MURDER.

John Lucky, a well-to-do farmer, living in Kitley township, several miles distant from Smith's Falls was in that town on Saturday afternoon, about half an hour later Mr. Lucky and daughter also passed towards home. A short time had elapsed when the neighbors, the nearest of whom was several hundred yards distant, noticed smoke and flames coming from Lucky's house. In one of the rooms where the flames and smoke were issuing, they found the bodies of the father, mother and daughter lying on the floor. Every effort was made to subdue the flames sufficient to allow of some one entering the room to bring them out, but all was in vain and the bodies were burned to a crisp before the fiery element could be mastered. Constable McDowd at once instituted enquiries and ascertained that a young man answering the description of one seen near the burning buildings had put up at the Palace Hotel, Smith Falls, and the chief clerk of the hotel, Mr. Smith, had learned from the proprietor that a young man had arrived there about 10:30 in the evening and at once went to the barber shop and shaved. He was noticed to act very strangely, as though partially intoxicated, and he faintly twice while in the barber chair. He then asked for a room and being shown one looked himself in, refusing to converse with any one. Chief learning these particulars went to the room and asked the man his name, which he gave as Charles Kingsley. He was next invited to give an account of himself, when he answered that he had been out in the township of Kitley visiting an uncle. The chief asked him if he did not live in the house of Mr. Lucky, and if he did not set fire to the premises, adding that he would have to arrest him on the charge of murdering his father, mother and daughter. The young man declared that he did not know anything about the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Lucky, but about twenty days afterwards he confessed that his own name was Lucky, that he was the son of John Lucky, the murdered man, he was then taken to the goal.

He had just arrived in Smith Falls from the central prison, Toronto, on Saturday morning. He had been sent up last fall for stealing a fur coat from his employer, a farmer living near Ottawa. He says he saw the house of his father burning, but was not enough interested to go near the scene. He stoutly denied having been near the house or having seen his parents. An examination of the prisoner's clothes shows blood-stains on the vest, coat and trousers. He made an effort to have his hands made obliterate the marks with a penknife. The inside of the trousers pockets were badly stained with blood. The young man made different stories about his actions and seems to be unable to give any clear reasons as to why he visited the locality of his own home.

The case was investigated on Wednesday by a coroner's jury, when the following verdict was rendered:

That the prisoner, Charles Lucky, did wilfully, with malice aforethought, murder the said John J. Lucky, Sr., Mrs. Mary Ann Lucky, and their daughter, and was guilty of the crime. During the rendering of the verdict the prisoner did not even change color and was quite indifferent to the charge hanging over him, taking everything as a matter of course. He was immediately taken to the jail, at Brockville, by Chief Constable McDowd and Detective Grier. After the rendering of the verdict and before he left for Brockville, his brother and wife visited him at the hotel when he broke down and wept bitterly, declaring that he was innocent of the crime, and that God, there are no blood stains on my hand.

Don't fail to see Morgans.

A SOLSVILLE MIRACLE.

ANOTHER GREAT TRIUMPH FOR A CANADIAN REMEDY.

AN ACCOUNT OF THE SUFFERING AND RECOVERY OF PHILANDER HYDE—BELLEROS, HIS SUFFERING AND RECOVERY FROM DEATH BY HIS RECOVERY FROM THIS PITIFUL CONDITION—A REMARKABLE NARRATIVE.

During the past two months there have appeared in the columns of the Standard the particulars of a number of cases so remarkable as to justify the term "miracles." These cases were investigated and verified by the Albany Journal, Detroit News, Albany Express, and other papers whose reputation is as good as that of the Standard.

That the term "miracles" was justified will be admitted when it is remembered that in such of the cases referred to the sufferer had been pronounced incurable by leading physicians, and at least one of the cases were treated by men who reputations has placed them among the leaders of the world's medical scientists, but without avail, and the patient was sent to his home with the verdict that there was no hope for him, and that only death could interfere with his suffering.

When some months later the restoration to health and strength of the former sufferer was announced it is little wonder that the case created a profound sensation throughout the country.

Recently the case of a man who had eaten an equally remarkable cure, came under the notice of the Standard:

SOLSVILLE, N.Y., June 25, 1892. Five weeks ago Mr. Philander Hyde (and Mr. Hyde) was very old and not expected to live but a short time. He was in such agony that we had to give him morphine to relieve the terrible pain from which he was suffering.

The doctors had given him up. They said there was no help for him, and my father longed to see him die. But I had a certain relief from his sufferings. One day he saw in the Albany Journal an account of how a man by the name of Quant, living in Galway, Ireland, had been cured of his affliction.

He was afflicted like father, with locomotor ataxia, had been very greatly benefited and hoped for a permanent cure from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. On learning that these pills could be had of Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., he ordered a box, and they were not expensive, my husband sent $2.50 for six boxes of them. And what a blessing they have been!

Father has taken one of the four boxes of the Pink Pills. He is no longer confined to his bed, but is able to sit up without assistance and with the aid only of a cane to walk about the house and all around outside. He has a good hearty appetite, his food agrees with him, the pain in the back from which he suffered so long and terribly has disappeared. He has no more creeping chills and he appears and says he feels like a new man.

The doctors had pronounced his disease to be creeping paralysis, said he could not be cured. I am glad we are that we heard about these wonderful Pink Pills, and how thankful we are for what they have done for father. Indeed they have done wonders, even a miracle for him. Respectfully yours,

MRS. WILLIAM JOHNSON.

The above letter indicated a cure so remarkable as to be worthy of the fullest investigation, and the Standard determined to place the facts, if correctly stated, before the public for the benefit of other sufferers.

It was accordingly sent to the Albany Journal, with this end in view a reporter was sent to Solville with instructions to give the facts of the case as he found them. With these instructions he was sent to Solville, and on Tuesday, Aug. 2, 1892, called upon Philander Hyde and learned from him and from his relatives and neighbors and friends the full story of his illness and the terrible suffering, of his having been given up by the doctors, and of his cure and rapid convalescence by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

It may be of interest to the readers to know that Solville is a post office village in Madison county, N.Y., about thirty miles from Utica, and is situated on the New York Ontario & Western Railroad. It is at the station at which to get off to go to Madison Lake, the charming and attractive objective of many pleasure parties.

On reaching Solville the reporter inquired of the station agent, who is also agent there of the National Express Company, if he knew a man by the name of Philander Hyde, and where he lived, and also if he knew a man by the name of William Johnson, and Philander Hyde, who is his father, lives with him in that white house over there on the hill; that his father sitting on the piazza.

When told that your reporter's errand was to interview Mr. Hyde and to learn about his sickness and alleged cure, Mr. Hyde said: "I will take you to his house, right over to the house and see Mr. Hyde and my wife. I will come over pretty soon, and we will be only too happy to tell you all about it."

"Will you walk in?" said Mr. Johnson. "Those two children (who are playing about the house) are his children and this is my father, Philander Hyde."

Mr. Hyde walked into the sitting room and taking a seat said he would willingly tell the reporter all the particulars of his case, and no objections to it being published, as it might be the means of helping to relieve others whose sufferings were the same or similar to what he had been.

His story was as follows: "My name is Philander Hyde. I am nearly sixty years of age. My wife, Mary, was born in Brockfield, Madison county, where all my life was spent until recently, when becoming helpless, my son-in-law was kind enough to take me into his home, and from him and my daughter I have had the kindest care. My life occupies a very interesting history. I was always prosperous and well and strong and rugged until two years ago last winter, when I had the grip. When the grip left me I had sensation of numbness in my legs which gradually grew to be stiff at the joints and very painful. I felt the stiffness in my feet and in my arms, and my hands extended to my knees and to my hip joints, and to my bowels and stomach and prevented digestion. To move the bowels I was compelled to take great quantities of castor oil."

"While I was in this condition, cold feelings would begin in my feet and streak up my legs to my back, and I would feel the whole length of my back bone. These spells which occurred daily, would last from two to four hours, and were excruciatingly painful. I could not sleep at night, my appetite became helpless, and life was such a burden that I prayed for death. Why, my dear sir, I paid a great deal more to be desisted than a thousand deaths."

"While in this condition I was treated by Dr. G. W. Smith, and Dr. Nicholas, of Solville, and Dr. Weed, of Utica. They did me no good. I soon became perfectly helpless and lost all power of motion even in my arms and legs."

"On the 24th of February last," said Mrs. Johnson, "we had him brought to our home. He had to be carried all the way in a bed. He was so helpless and so weak that he could not move a muscle."

The Stirling News-Argus is exercising because we published an item saying that their "High School grounds were growing up wild." We did not mean to infer that they were no scholars or in any way to infer that their schools was an inferior one. It was simply to show that their board of trustees were not making the grounds look attractive. The school is a flourishing one, but the trustees seem to be behind the time according to the News-Argus.

In Boston there is anxiety regarding the fate of Capt. W. Lawler, who sailed from there June 5th last in a twelve foot canvas boat for a trip across the ocean. His wife received a letter from him at North Sydney, C.B., July 30. A few weeks later he was spoken by a vessel near St. Pierre. That is the last information received as to his whereabouts.

Many jumped overboard and swam to land. The steamer Premier of the Canadian Pacific Navigation Company was struck by the steamer Williamette, in a dense fog, ten miles south of Port Townsend, Wash., last Thursday. Two persons were killed. Assistance was secured and all of the passengers taken off. The boats were so tight they wedged together that they had to be propelled together when they were beached. The rescuing tide left both boats stranded and still interlocked.

WONDERFUL RESULTS

FOLLOW THE USE OF SALVATOR MAGNUS IN LUNG TROUBLE

THE REMARKABLE CURE EFFECTED IN THE CASE OF STEPHEN H. ANDREWS—HIS LUNGS WERE COMPLETELY FILLED UP—A SHORT COURSE WITH THIS GREAT REMEDY RELIEVED HIM.

Scarcely a day passes but one hears of new cases of remarkable cures effected by the use of that greatest known remedy for lung and throat troubles, Salvator Magnus. The wonderful cure brought about in the case of Mrs. W. H. Breakell, of this town, has attracted wide spread attention, and the great medicine which restored her to health after all other remedies had failed is the subject of a great deal of talk. It is certainly very gratifying to the people of Brockville to know that a medicine of such merit should all the other day—Mrs. Breakell, Accident learned of another case in which a young man was restored to health by its use. The representative happened to be talking to Mrs. Andrews, wife of Capt. Andrews, Church street, when the conversation turned upon the subject of proprietary medicines. She said there was a time when she had very little faith in advertised remedies, but she had reason to change her mind regarding one anyway. Being asked what that one was, she replied that it was Salvator Magnus. The doctor's curiosity was aroused and in answer to further inquiries Mrs. Andrews stated that in the spring of 1884 her son, Stephen H. Andrews, was learning the trade of organ building in L. J. Mansell's factory here. He was 16 years of age at that time. The dust from the woodworking machinery was so bad that he could hardly breathe. He was almost completely stuffed up, he coughed a great deal and raised large quantities of solid tubercular matter, the lungs were so filled that one could hardly hear the air passing through them. His voice was husky and wheezing—in fact his natural voice was gone almost entirely. He came very anxious about him, and called in the best of medical skill. The doctor recommended Salvator Magnus. His previous experience with the remedy had thoroughly convinced him of its excellence in lung troubles. My son had quit work at that time. After using the Magnus four or five weeks he had completely recovered his voice, his cough was much easier and the only thing that troubled him was a little shortness of breath at times. He was anxious to leave his trade and start a shop again. He was not long until his lungs filled up again. He returned to the use of the Magnus and again recovered. He went back to work again some time later and once again he was cured. The physician got work in another part of the building away from the dust. He kept on taking the Magnus now and then until he finished the trade, after which he went to Listowel to work as a journeyman. He took a bottle of Salvator Magnus with him in case the trouble should return but he never had occasion to use it. He has enjoyed best of health since. He is now working at his trade of organ building in New York city, and never had a sign of lung trouble. I attribute his recovery to health entirely to the use of Salvator Magnus, and believe that if it had not been for that medicine he would not have been alive to-day.

A deep interest was created by Mrs. Andrews' statements, so much so that the Times man went at once and interviewed the physician who had attended young Andrews and he corroborated in every particular what she had said. He said he had never heard of the use of Salvator Magnus. He had used it several times before and always with satisfactory results. He said that he considered it the foremost medicine of the day for lung trouble, consumption, etc.

The medicine is manufactured by the Salvator Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ontario, or Morristown, N. Y., who also manufacture that unrivalled cough mixture, Magnus Expectorant and the Magic Life Lotion. These remedies are for sale by all respectable drugists.—Brockville Times.

Mrs. Sieppard, a lady lecturing against Roman Catholicism had rented the town hall at Brockville and was refused admittance.

AT "CHEAPSIDE"

THE DISPLAY OF

DRY GOODS, MILLINERY, CLOTHS, TWEEDS, CARPETS, FURS, ETC., IS THE LARGEST EVER SEEN OUTSIDE OF THE LARGEST CITIES.

We have been deluged with compliments. That our efforts at our opening were appreciated was more than evidenced by the large sales made throughout the house, being by far the largest we have ever had for this time of year. People are not so slow to find the best place, for the best values, and every day now is a busy one.

Never in 20 years have we been so strong in every department, very special care having been exercised in the selection of just the class of goods our patrons want.

Our LADIES' UNDERCLOTHING is bought from a celebrated German manufacturer, made soft and warm with a special view to overcome the prejudice delicate ladies entertain for the ordinary rough picky wool.

Our HOSE and GLOVES are made to order, and our ranges of makes is sure of supplying every person's taste or purse.

There is the 15 cts. WOOL HOSE, which eclipses them all. The better qualities at 20 and 25 cts. still heavier, and the soft CASHMERE HOSE from 25 to 60 cts. a pair, to fit stout, medium or slender ladies.

There is the RIBBED HOSE, made specially for romping children, with double knees and heels.

There are the CASHMERE GLOVES made to our order with kid ends on the fingers, and Double Cashmere Tips, all with a view to durability and to give you the worth of your money.

You will find that for months ahead we have been thinking of you, and planning for you, and all we expect in your encouragement and support, your "well done" will help us, and your liberal purchases will encourage us to renewed effort.

We are proud of our DRESS GOODS display, and the people are showing what they think of it by the parcels we are sending out. Never so busy before in Dress Goods. Never had so much to show you before and never could sell so cheaply as now.

CLOTHS, TWEEDS AND OVERCOATINGS. A grand range to choose from and our tailors are busy at order. Our motto in this department is "Fit fits and finish, good reliable goods and close prices," and that's what "fetches" the trade every time.

Our FURS—Need we mention them after what you saw at the County Fair and on Opening Day. Surely you will say in the language of a gentleman who looked in our Fur Room on opening day, and what you can see every day, after drawing a long sigh, "beats all." Yes, it beats everybody. Ahead of all fair competition. Our advice—Buy FURS Early. Don't forget our advice, they are sure to be higher later in the season because they cannot be imported again this year, owing to the "Cholera Scare."
